More Than Perfect Pictures

Kerem joined a photography club because he liked taking pictures but did not understand his camera settings. At first, he deleted every photograph that was not perfect. The club leader suggested keeping some unsuccessful pictures and writing down what had gone wrong. Kerem began comparing pictures taken in different light. After two months, he could explain why some images were blurred. He still preferred photographing plants to taking portraits. For the club exhibition, he chose three plant photographs and displayed an early mistake beside them to show how he had improved.

16. Why did Kerem join the club?
    A) To sell his camera
    B) To teach portrait photography
    C) To learn how to use his camera better

17. What did the leader recommend?
    A) Keeping and analysing some unsuccessful pictures
    B) Deleting all imperfect pictures immediately
    C) Using only one camera setting forever

18. What could Kerem do after two months?
    A) Explain why some pictures were blurred
    B) Repair every kind of camera
    C) Take only perfect photographs

19. What did he prefer to photograph?
    A) Plants B) Portraits C) Sports events

20. Why did he display an early mistake?
    A) To advertise a new camera B) To show his progress C) To hide his recent work
