TWO ROLES AT THE CULTURE FAIR

Next Saturday, our school will hold a culture fair. From ten to twelve, I will be helping at the information desk while my friend Ekin guides visitors around the displays. At noon, we will exchange jobs so that both of us can try a different role. Food labels will be printed in two languages, and full ingredient lists will be available at each stand. Performances will be recorded only with the participants' permission. The organisers hope visitors will ask questions and share experiences rather than simply take photographs. After the fair, volunteers will discuss what worked and suggest improvements.
