A Useful Tool Library

A neighbourhood centre opened a tool library so residents could borrow equipment they used only occasionally. Before buying anything, the volunteers asked which items people needed. They also checked whether users required demonstrations. A booking system was introduced, and simple instructions were attached to each item. During the first month, some tools were returned late, so the centre added reminder messages. The organisers did not claim that every problem had been solved. They planned to review the system with users and make changes as the service developed.

16. Why was the tool library opened?
    A) To require everyone to buy more tools
    B) To let residents borrow occasionally needed equipment
    C) To replace the neighbourhood centre

17. What did volunteers do before purchasing tools?
    A) Removed every instruction card
    B) Asked residents about their needs
    C) Ended all demonstrations

18. What accompanied each item?
    A) A personal photograph of the owner
    B) A bus timetable
    C) Simple instructions

19. Why were reminders added?
    A) Some tools were returned late.
    B) No one had borrowed anything.
    C) The centre had closed permanently.

20. How did organisers view the first month?
    A) As proof that no changes would ever be needed
    B) As a basis for further review and improvement
    C) As a reason to stop asking users for feedback
